Why choose this course?

If you find problem solving, decision-making, achieving targets and motivating people to improve the effectiveness, efficiency and profitability of a business appealing, this is the path for you.

Overview

A major in management is a passport to many career opportunities nationally and internationally across a range of sectors.

You will develop skills in creative thinking, decision making, leadership, communication and negotiation and gain a thorough understanding of operations and change – how to adapt yourself and your team to manage projects and organisations. These skills will help you build a fantastic career.

The Management major provides analytical, strategic and operational skills and detailed knowledge of the contemporary business environment. This will enable you to take on a professional position with management responsibilities or a leadership position within an organisation.

Graduates find work in a variety of organisations from small business start-ups to large companies and the public sector. They solve problems, make decisions and work with others to achieve targets, efficiency and profitability.

During your course you will hear from real-world managers and develop your understanding of entrepreneurship and innovation, intercultural communication and negotiation, and managing in a dynamic business environment.

The major begins with units introducing key management concepts and their application to manufacturing and service organisations before focusing on entrepreneurship and innovation, and intercultural communication and negotiation. Third-level units develop skills in strategic management and managing in a dynamic business environment.

The capstone Project Management unit develops the technical and the people skills required to manage individual projects.

Industry links

Our lecturers provide research and consultancy services in industry, through links with organisations such as Brisbane Airport, other major infrastructure organisations and various government departments.

Real-world activities are linked back to the units taught, ensuring you graduate with up-to-date skills and knowledge. These industry links also provide access to guest lecturers and tutors who offer real-life experiences and examples and can show you how to apply the theory to the real world.

Course combination and career outcomes

A Management major will provide you with strategic and decision making skills.

You can extend your major in Management with additional units, or choose complementary studies in human resource management, marketing, accountancy, international business, logistics, entrepreneurship or a language.

Combining with additional business study areas, such as human resource management, marketing or accountancy will give you great career choice. These functional areas will provide you with specific skills which may help you gain employment in specific areas.

Your management skills will give you greater scope to add value to the organisation through being able to motivate staff and co-workers, provide vision and direction, and... assist in achieving competitive advantage, as well as enhancing your career progression through to senior management positions.

Your degree at a glance

Year 1
You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from finance, accounting and economics through to marketing and data analysis. You will develop generic skills in all areas, and gain an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. Your focus on management begins in your second semester, when you'll start to develop skills in strategy, leadership and internationalisation.

Year 2
Building upon your broader business knowledge, you'll learn how critical analysis and strategic thinking assists management in challenging old viewpoints. You will learn about the importance of sustainability and change in organisations operating within complex environments. Opportunities will be provided to investigate the functional role of operations management designed to add value in productivity through allocating all the resources needed to produce a product. You will also be introduced to innovative and entrepreneurial thinking to enhance your business planning capabilities. The choice of a second business study area or an extended major in management will begin to steer your future career direction.

Year 3
In the third year you both integrate and further expand your knowledge into strategic management and operations management through the project approach to management. You will investigate how companies seek advantages over their industry competitors. You will consolidate your learning and extend yourself, developing analytical-thinking and decision-making skills. Working as individuals and in groups, you will develop a project management plan, fusing your knowledge of technical and social-cultural aspects of the organisation developed throughout the major. Defining the project, addressing the challenges of time, costs and risk you will decide the ways and means to effectively and efficiently use human and non human resources to reach the project's goals and those of the organisation.

AMB200 CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR

AMB202 INTEGRATED MARKETING COMMUNICATION
In past decades many organisations separated the different forms of marketing communication that convey their corporate and marketing messages. They developed separate plans for their advertising, public relations, direct marketing, personal selling and sales promotion with separate goals, objectives, strategies and budgets. Today many companies recognise the concept of integrated marketing communication which integrates these different functions along with other aspects of the marketing mix that communicate with stakeholders and customers. Integrated marketing communication requires a ‘total’ approach to planning marketing communication programs and coordinating communication strategies in support of overall brand and product/service marketing objectives.
