Details:
It is an exciting time to be a human resource management professional. New technologies, changing economic conditions, increasing workforce diversity and an emphasis on work-life balance are all contributing to a profound evolution in the nature of work and the challenges of managing contemporary organisations.

The Human Resource Management program is designed to increase the skills of both specialists and line managers and to meet the individual learning goals and career aspirations of each student. The program provides flexibility for the busy professional to complete the degree part-time, focusing on real-world work issues of personal relevance. Full-time students with little work experience will also have flexibility to complete the degree with applications that suit their own career goals.

All students complete the degree with a capstone project that allows consolidation of learning through application to the student’s own workplace or other organisations. There are a variety of delivery modes including face-to-face weekly sessions, block delivery days, projects and online-supported delivery.

Career outcomes
The program is accredited with the Australian Human Resources Institute and as such prepares graduates for careers in generalist or specialist human resource professional roles. Generalist positions include human resources assistant, officer, manager or director and these may be located in corporate and private firms as well as public institutions. Specialist positions may include those involved with employment relations, recruitment and placement consulting, training and development specialists, management and executive coaching, as well as consulting careers.

Structures and Units

Unit selection
You should consult with the subject area coordinator for advice on units depending on your prior study.

Example course units
- Consulting and Change Management
- Contemporary Issues in Human Resource Management
- Leadership and Executive Coaching
- Managing High-Performance Organisations
- Self Leadership
- Strategic Human Resource Development
- Strategic Human Resource Management
- Talent Management

Course design
Students must undertake 192 credit points consisting of 144 credit points of prescribed units and 48 credit points of approved option (elective) units.
To ensure that the program builds on prior academic and work experience, each participant in the HRM major receives an individualised study plan. Participants are therefore required to consult with the HRM coordinator regarding development of their study plan. Any subsequent changes to the approved program will require coordinator approval. Failure to obtain approval may affect a student’s course progression and impact on their eligibility to graduate.

Students who have completed an undergraduate degree in a Business related or other cognate degree directly related to the discipline area within the previous five years, may be eligible for exemptions up to a maximum of 48 credit points. For further information on exemptions, please refer to the Master of Business Advanced title page.

Some applicants may require unit substitution where they have studied the equivalent of some introductory units in their undergraduate qualification. Choice of unit substitution is subject to approval by the Subject Area Coordinator.

Potential Careers:

UNIT SYNOPSES

MGN409 MANAGEMENT THEORY AND PRACTICE
This unit examines the following: the functions and roles of managers; concepts and principles and their practical applications; the key management functions; areas of planning, organising, staffing, directing and controlling; production/operations management and the management of quality; entrepreneurship and business planning; and important problems, opportunities and trends facing managers in Australia analysed from the viewpoint of relevant academic disciplines.

Antirequisites: GSN401 and GSZ401  Credit points: 12
Contact hours: 3 per week  Campus: Gardens Point
Teaching period: 2013 SEM-1 and 2013 SEM-2

MGN410 EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS
This unit looks at the following: employment relations; employee and union action; the role of governments and industrial tribunals; alternative methods and pressures to change traditional Australian systems; the Australian system of labour management relations; systems of regulation in the employment area; negotiating skills; and the resources required for mobilising change in this area.

Credit points: 12  Campus: Gardens Point  Teaching period: 2013 SEM-2

MGN412 ORGANISATIONAL BEHAVIOUR
This subject aims to provide a broad understanding of organisational behaviour as a base for future study and practice of management. It moves from a micro-perspective on individual behaviour through the interface between the individual and the organisation to overall characteristics of organisations which shape the behaviour of their members. The aim is to provide an understanding of why employees feel and act the way they do in organisations and considers methods for enhancing positive employee attitudes and behaviours and organisational effectiveness. The emphasis is on understanding basic assumptions and models, major theoretical issues, methods of measurement and practical implications.

Antirequisites: GSN409, GSN419 and GSZ409  Credit
Managing High-Performance Organisations is designed to provide a bridge between HRM-discipline specific and strategic/general management perspectives. The unit is therefore a centrepiece of the postgraduate HRM program. The unit serves the vitally important role of locating HRM in to its broader organisational and general management context. It also aims to develop advanced level business knowledge and skill and develop conceptual frameworks for integration and high level impact of HRM with business success and performance.

Prerequisites: MGN409  Credit points: 12  Contact hours: 3  Campus: Gardens Point  Teaching period: 2013 SEM-1

MGN440 HRM THEORY AND PRACTICE
This unit examines the interplay between human resource management policies and processes and their contribution to sustainable competitive advantage and organisational effectiveness. HRM is considered from stakeholder, strategic and functional perspectives and an open systems model is used to introduce key processes and practices. The unit fosters discipline knowledge, analytical and action taking competencies and prepares students for advanced study in the field.

Prerequisites: MGN427  Credit points: 12  Campus: Gardens Point  Teaching period: 2013 SEM-1 and 2013 SEM-2

MGN441 LEADERSHIP AND EXECUTIVE COACHING
One-to-one executive coaching has emerged as a popular and powerful intervention for improving the performance and satisfaction of individual executives. More recently, its use has been expanded into a variety of related organisational interventions. Human resource professionals are often responsible for making decisions about how coaching is used in organisations, particularly in relation to leadership development. This unit will equip students with expertise in understanding how leadership and executive coaching intersect in organisations. It will cover the theoretical foundations and models of evidence-based executive coaching, give opportunities to acquire and practice foundational coaching skills, as well as providing feedback for self-development.

MGN442 SELF LEADERSHIP
In the contemporary business environment professionals are empowered to manage their own growth and development in order to facilitate meaningfulness in organisational life. The unit on Self-leadership is an elective in the HRM major and is delivered predominately in an ‘online’ mode to enable an ‘anytime’ and ‘anywhere’ approach to your self-development work. This approach invites you to take the necessary time to reflect and develop greater insight into your own thinking and behaviour.

MGN443 TALENT MANAGEMENT

Australia’s growing skills shortage and the prospect of an ageing workforce threaten the sustainability, productivity and growth of many industry sectors. These pressures have made talent management a strategic priority for many organisations. At its heart, talent management is simply a matter of anticipating the need for human capital and then developing a plan to meet it. However, the adaptive capacity of traditional workforce planning methods appears inadequate for today’s uncertain business environment. This unit examines talent management as an alternative to traditional HR planning practices. It focuses on developing both a theoretical framework to guide talent management initiatives and applied skills (e.g. identification of critical roles, workforce forecasting and analysis) required to develop a talent management plan.

Antirequisites: MGN429  Credit points: 12  Campus: Gardens Point  Teaching period: 2013 SEM-1

MGN505 CONSULTING AND CHANGE MANAGEMENT

This unit considers the origins, nature and effect of social change on individuals, organisations and communities. Theories and models of change are used to explore planned and unplanned changes currently occurring, particularly as these relate to possible futures. Emphasis is on the strategies and skills required to initiate and participate in effective change management.
