You will undertake three years of dedicated training, developing your craft, and graduating with the skills to work in highly diversified sector with career pathways in screen, stage, and beyond. You will begin from the first year, exploring your own creative identity and understanding of creative practice, as well as training in acting skills, including movement, voice, speech production, physical expressivity, character, acting methodologies, and script analysis.

As your course progresses you will continue to refine your acting skills, and your creative leadership skills, as well as having the option to include complementary studies across areas including drama, film, writing, media, and marketing. These studies will increase your entrepreneurial knowledge, and provide greater flexibility of employment in a rapidly changing industry.

Your final year presents opportunities to work on collaborative projects, developing and demonstrating real world skills in working with other creative practitioners and showcasing these skills to the stage, screen, and emerging media industries you are about to graduate into. You will graduate confident in your abilities as an actor, and as a creative leader working both independently and collaboratively to produce, promote, and generate audience excitement about your screen and stage performances, throughout the course of your career.

‘At QUT we had the opportunity to meet and work with industry professionals at the top of their game. It opened so many doors for me not only in Queensland but around Australia. I'm currently living in Sydney and working in my dream role on Home and Away.’
actors, we welcome applications from aspiring actors of all backgrounds via audition.

Real-world learning
Specialised screen training, small group sizes and superb facilities give QUT acting graduates a distinctive edge. Professional film crews will assist you on your shoots, and you’ll have opportunities to work with professional directors and designers of national standing.

You will have the opportunity to learn creative leadership, directing and scriptwriting to develop the skills needed to excel in an industry where entrepreneurial production across a diverse range of newly emergent media environments is an increasingly prominent part of actors’ career pathways.

Your will learn in state of the art facilities including sprung floor dance studios, light filled drama studios and all-purpose black box studios. Working within the Creative Industries precinct you will also have access to television studios, music and voice recording studios, and a range of different performance spaces. You will collaborate with other creatives who are also learning, producing their own new screen works, events, and exhibitions, and showcasing their talents across a wide range of artforms, in this vibrant working environment.

Learn from the best
Your teachers are working in film, television and live performance. They’re pursuing their own successful careers and love to share their own professional insights and tips as they mentor you and help you to find your own path onto the stage and screen.

Strong links with industry mean you will graduate with contacts and networking skills.
