International Exchange

Year offered: 2011
Admissions: No

If you are taking an exchange semester in another country, you may be able to record your studies as an International Exchange minor. This minor must consist of the equivalent of one semester of full-time study (i.e. 48 credit points in QUT's terms) at an appropriate university level. You must find a suitable set of units at the University you are going to attend and have that set approved by your faculty for your course before you go overseas.

Once approved, an International Exchange minor can be recognised on your academic record (transcript of results).
